

The old Provo High School stood on the block now occupied by the city center. In this photograph taken by Herald photographer Mark Rigtrup in 1963, the building is being torn down. Courtesy of Provo Daily Herald.

just after the war began, they incorporated under the name of Provo Community Congregational Church, and have functioned in this united way ever since.<sup>5</sup> The Catholics began in 1923 to construct their beautiful Italian Renaissance cathedral at this time.<sup>6</sup>

Community Progress

In other areas the community seemed to pull